Let's Start!

I've been thinking about something!

Learning Outcome

Describe complicated or unusual events in the past through a wider range of B1 language in both work and social contexts.

Ask your partner:

- What is something you have learned from reading magazines?
- What is something you have been thinking about for a long time?

Can Do Statements

- I can exchange opinions about jobs and work.
- I can ask for clarification or use rhetorical questions to emphasize a point.
- I can talk about things I have done or have been doing.

Let's Explore!

Sally and Peter talk about today's job market. What do they say about it?

Instructions: Read the text aloud.

Peter: So Sally, did you recommend journalism to the person who contacted you?

Sally: Yes, I did.

Peter: Could you tell me why journalism is a good career field in today's job market?

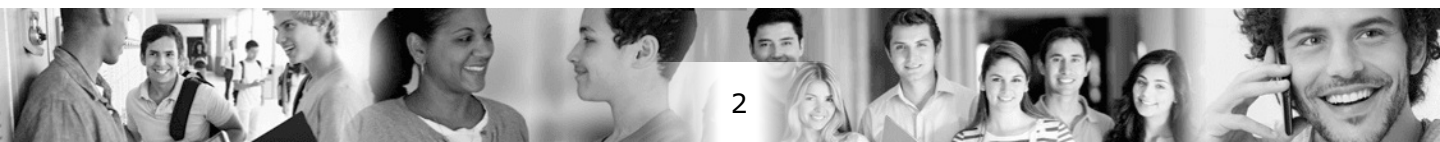

Sally: I've been thinking a lot about this question. It's always a fast-paced environment. There is a lot of competition between newspapers, magazines and other websites. All of those sources require people to create content.

Peter: Can you explain how you manage to succeed so well in your field?

Sally: From my experience, you need to have an eye for detail in order to make stories interesting. I have been learning a lot as a freelancer.

Peter: There is competition in many sectors, especially in creative jobs. I have met some designers or architects who also say their fields are very competitive.

Sally: You're right about that! In my opinion, if you are perseverant, it's possible to make a good livelihood working in this area. Just like artists, new journalists definitely need to create a portfolio of their work. I also think it's very important to maintain good working relationships with your colleagues. Teamwork is crucial nowadays.

Let's Practice!

Sally gives her opinion on her career field. There's so much competition!*

*the activity or condition of striving to gain or win something by defeating or establishing superiority over others.

Learning Points

Present Perfect Continuous vs. Present Perfect Tenses

You use these tenses to express that an action began in the past and is still going on or has just finished.

You use the Present Perfect tense mainly to express that an action is completed or to emphasize the result.

Forms:

Regular verbs: form of 'have' + base form of verb + ed

Example:

I have worked at the bakery for six years.

Irregular verbs: form of 'have' + past participle of irregular verbs

Example:

I have written a number of books in the last two years.

You use the Present Perfect Continuous tense to emphasize the duration or continuous course of an action.

Form:

Form of 'have' + been + base form of verb + ing

Example:

We have been walking for two hours!

Examples:

- I have been thinking a lot about this question.
- I have been learning a lot as a freelancer.
- I have met some designers or architects who also complain about competition in their fields.

Questions Within Sentences

You ask for clarification when you want more details of what the other person is talking about.

We often ask for clarification when we are not clear on what the other person is referring to. We ask the other person to be more specific by giving more information.

You can use questions within sentences to ask for clarification. You ask a question including a sentence within the question, like Don't you think it sounds a bit too intense?

Questions within sentences are called embedded questions.

You can use embedded questions, like Can you tell me ... ? or Do you know if/which/what ... ? to ask for clarification.

Look at the chart below for an explanation on how to make embedded questions.

Main Question	Embedded Question
Do you know ...	what/where/when/who ... ?
Can you help me understand ...	what/where/when/who ... ?
Can you explain ...	what/where/when/who ... ?
Could you tell me ...	what/where/when/who ... ?

Examples:

- Could you tell me why journalism is a good career field in today's job market?
- Can you explain how you manage to succeed so well in your field?
